industrial condition of the south, showing what that section has accomplished and what are its prospects. He gives some instructive statistics, in which comparisons are drawn between the great wealth of the south in 1860 and the impoverished condition of 1870. In 1860 the total assessed value of property in the United States was $1,000,000,000, and of this the south had $5,200,000,000, or 44 per cent.; in 1870 the total for the country was $14,170,000,000, and of this the south only had $3,061,000,000, or 22 per cent.

The arricle proceeds to show what has happened in the south since the present revival of prosperity began. It deals broadly with the growth of cotton manufactures, and estimates the savings of the south on this account at hundreds of millions of dol-this account at hundreds of millions of dollars yearly, that amount of money having formerly been diverted to the cotton mills of the north. Early market gardening and fruit are estimated to yield to the south $50,000,000 annually, and winter visitors from the north leave there quite $25,000,000.

In 1873 the value of the south's agricultura products was $571,000,000; in 1888 it was $789,000,000, and in 1889 it will be about $850,000,000. In 1879 the south produced 481,000,000 bushels of grain, and in 1888 632,000,000 bushels, and the yield for 1889 will probably show 650,000,000 to 675,000,000 bushels. In 1879 the value of the live stock in the south was $391,400,000, and in 1889 $569,160,000. $569,160,000.

In 1880 the south had 220 national banks, with a capital of $45,397.0.0, and in 1889 it has 472 national banks, and their capital is $76,454,000. In the last four years 14,000 new $76,434,000. In the last four years 14,000 new manufacturing and mining enterprises have been organized in the south.

The railroad mileage of the south has been increased by the addition of nearly 21,000 miles since 1880. Since that year over $80,000,000 have been spent in the building of new roads and improving old ones. The assessed value of property has increased over $1,300,000,000, and the true valuation over $3,000,000,000. In 1880 the south made 397,301 tons of pig iron; in 1888, 1,132,000, and in 1889 the output will probably be about 1,600,000 to 1,700,000 tons.

In 1880 6,048,571 tons of coal were mired in the south, and in 1888 the output was over 18,000,000 tons. Cotton mills have increased from 161, with 14,323 looms and 667,854 spindles, in 1880, to 355 mills, with 45,001 looms and 2,035,268 spindles, while many new mills are under construction and many new mills are under construction and many old ones being enlarged. In 1880 there were 40 cottonseed-oil mills in the south, having a capital of $3 500,000; now there are 213. with over $20,000,000 investee.
